1. I contacted [redacted] regarding the subject, as you instructed.
He brought me [redacted]

[redacted] and an interpreter's point of view. He has a work request from [redacted] for this information, which also requests some technical evaluation of the camera with questions concerning its resolution capability, field of view, photogrammetric characteristics, etc.

2. After evaluating the job to be done fairly thoroughly and discussing it with [redacted] I decided to see if it would not be more appropriate for ESD to perform this task, since it is clearly of a T&E nature. I discussed it at some length with [redacted] who said he wished that he could do it, but that he did not have the required capability in terms of personnel (photogrammetrists) on his staff; so, he declined.

3. In the process of discussing it with Bill, it occurred to me that APSD would be a natural for the job: so, I showed the camera, material and work order to [redacted] They agreed to the appropriateness of their doing the job. I called [redacted] and introduced him to the two of them, and we discussed the job at some length. I made arrangements for them to contact [redacted] and I am convinced that both [redacted] and APSD are satisfied with this arrangement. I will keep in touch with APSD to be sure that [redacted]
